

This link below is an interview I did with Shawn Nevins from <http://www.spiritualteachers.org/>. There are some good interviews over at Shawn's spiritual teachers site so well worth checking out.

Have to say I am not a spiritual teacher but I am happy to try and answer questions either in the comments section of this site or via email.

I wasn't as clear or focused as I could have been, but that's OK as it still gives people a chance to hear my Aussie accent! One of the thoughts I had after the interview was about curiosity. At one point Shawn makes an observation about curiosity. Early on in life I wasn't particularly curious, but I think as life progressed I was molded into becoming curious about life. Always easier after the fact. <http://www.spiritualteachers.org/podcast/eddie-traversa-interview/>